

Pharmacovigilance services

The choice to outsource may be strategic or driven by a temporary lack of resources due to increased workload or vacancies.

The strategic benefits of outsourcing include setting free valuable resources allowing your company to direct your own employees to strategic business objectives.

A-consult offers:

- Experienced pharmacovigilance staff
- Long-term or temporary staff optimisation solutions
- Flexibility

When used strategic, outsourcing enables your company to reduce fixed overhead costs, avoid high upfront investments, secure additional capacity, increase resource flexibility or strengthen the performance of an activity that is not considered a core area of the business.

Whatever the reason, it is imperative to choose your outsourcing partner carefully. A-consult has many years of pharmacovigilance expertise from working with small and large pharmaceutical companies.

We focus on quality and medical expertise in our daily work.

Whether you are a global pharmacovigilance department or a local affiliate we have the staff to support you.

Our service concept is full-scale and flexible. We strive to match your needs whether it means full outsourcing or insourcing of A-consult staff in your organisation.

Your challenges – we bring you to a safe landing
